Report of Auditing Committee

TO AUDIT THE ACCOUNT OF THE REFUNDING COMMITTEE.

To the Selectmen of the town of Warner:

The undersigned, appointed Auditors by the town of Warner, at the annual meeting, March 9, 1880, "to inquire into all matters relating to the transaction of the refunding Committee," appointed Nov. 5, 1878, and to report to the Selectmen of the town, met said committee, Friday, March 12, inst, and respectfully submit the following report:

We find that no systematic account was kept of the Town Bonds of 1874, exchanged for new bonds, with the difference in interest between the old rate at 6 per cent. from Nov. 1, 1878. to May 1, 1879, and the new rate at 4 per cent. from Jan. 1, 1879 to May 1, 1879; or of old bonds redeemed in cash with interest from Nov. 1 1878 to day of redemption if redeemed before May 1, 1879; or to May 1, 1879 if redeemed at or after that last named date. To this circumstance it is probably owing, that a part of the discrepency between the committee's account as reported to the town, and the account transmitted herewith, arose.

But there are receipts from all parties holding old bonds redeemed, of the amount of cash received for face of bonds and interest; or the bonds so redeemed were presented with the date of redemption marked thereon; also receipts for amount of face of bonds exchanged, with difference of interest paid.

We further find no systematic account kept of bonds sold for cash, giving date of sale and amount of accrued interest paid to the committee by the different parties purchasing the bonds. There are statements made and signed by a portion of the purchasers, of the amount of the bonds received by them, and date of receipt of the same, by which we could estimate the accrued interest payable to the committee.

The amount received by the committee for the remaining portion of bonds sold, including accrued interest, we ascertained from the statements of the committee. Of the date of the sale of a number of the last named we found no record.

The committee desire to withdraw their charge of $95.00 for compensation, and leave the same to be adjusted by the selectmen.

The old bonds, (with coupons attached, payable Nov. 1, 1879, and subsequently,) were exhibited to the amount of twenty thousand dollars.

The following is a correct statement of the account as it appears to us:

REPORT

SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

Following the plan adopted by me last year, after my appointment to office, I gave immediate notice to all persons proposing to teach in the district schools in this town, that I should be at Simonds High School Hall, on Saturday, April 17, at 9 a. m., to attend to the usual examination, and to confer with teachers in regard to the management of schools, the studies to be pursued, and the text books to be used, expressing a desire to meet every one expecting to be a teacher in town this year. I also sent postal cards to all the prudential committees, requesting them to notify persons employed by them to teach in their several districts, of the meeting. On that day, several young ladies met me,—the examination proceeded, and the conference was held; four of those present had previously been examined by me and had taught in town.

The examination was intended to be suggestive in some degree, of subjects and methods to be introduced into schools, not so much for daily use as for examination and frequent exercises. After the several papers had been completed, in answer to all the questions, the main topics were considered orally by me, and questions asked by the teachers. Instructions and suggestions were mentally given. So few being present by reason of inclement weather, notice was published, and also sent to each prudential committee, of a continuance of the examination on the 24th of the same month. Five other persons were present, and the same course pursued as at the former meeting.

The following are some of the questions and systems proposed:

ARITHMETIC.

(2.) Explain the Arabic Notation.

(4.) Explain the English method of Numeration.

(6.) Why is it customary to begin the addition, subtraction and multiplication of numbers with the lowest order or denomination?

(6 a.) Why is it customary to begin the division of numbers with the highest order or denomination?

(9.) When the base, rate per cent, percentage, and amount, any two are given, how may the other two be found? How many cases may arise?

(a.) Base, $75; rate 3 1-3 per cent.,—amount required.

(b.) Amount, $52.25, rate 4 1-2 per cent, percentage required.

GEOGRAPHY.

(1.) Explain the distinction between natural and political divisions of the earth's surface.

(3.) Which are the most important political divisions, naming two or more in each of the six grand divisions of the earth?

(6.) Describe the Gulf Stream, giving origin, direction situation, and effect on the climate of different countries, with the names of countries affected thereby.

(9.) What are the most important vegetable productions of the earth; in what zones are they severally produced; and what are the distinctive uses of each? (mention not more than six varieties.)

(10.) Answer a similar question in regard to animals.

HISTORY.

(1.) Of what nationality were most of the early settlers of the United States?

(2.) Give the dates of the following settlements Plymouth, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Jamestown, Savannah and St. Augustine.

(a.) Name of the most noted man connected with the settlement of each of the following places: Jamestown, Baltimore and Savannah.

(5.) What war seriously affected all the New England colonies in 1675?

(6.) What war commenced one hundred years later? What battles were fought in New England? When will be the centennial anniversary of the last great battle of that war, and near what town will it probably be celebrated?

I have given the foregoing to show that I do not consider mere technical questions the only or proper test of intellectual acquirements necessary to render one competent to assume the offices of teacher. The reqnirement of the law may be met, but a fund of general knowledge is of great advantage to draw from in order to give interest to the daily repeated recitations of the school-room.

The situation of School Committee is often quite embarrassing. It is not his function to select and employ teachers, and assign their respective places. This is the duty of the Prudential Committee; and after this is performed the Town Committee is to inquire as to the qualifications of the persons employed. It sometimes happens that the individuals thus engaged as teachers, on account of age and lack of maturity, and want of general information, would not have been sought out or even thought of for such a position by the Town Committee. Set questions like those given in the text books may be answered correctly, and for this reason the candidates are presumed to be entitled to certificates. The School Committee has no discretion in the matter, and the certificates are given with little expectation that the persons receiving them will be successful teachers.

During the year we have had many most excellent schools, and some that were poor indeed; of the latter I am unwilling to speak, except to say that the persons employed were not competent to manage or instruct. In some districts the Prudential Committee often remark that the scholars are backward, and almost any one has learning enough to teach them. For such schools the best teachers are not sought after, but persons who can be hired at a low rate. This policy, continued, results in keeping the scholars backward and they come to think that good scholarship is not expected in their schools—the saddest condition into which a school can be brought. Into such schools I wish I could put the best teachers we have, to instil new notions and awaken new ambition in the minds of the pupils. The best teachers should be placed where they are most needed, like the best soldiers in the most difficult places. An indifferent teacher is of no value in a back-wood, or dull school. Indeed it is of supreme importance that every such school should be provided with the most accomplished teacher that can be provided. In such situations the highest honors and greatest successes have been achieved during the past year. To our best teachers I want to say, shun not such schools, for their welfare invites your services, and in them you will find a large reward.

There is a tendency to lower the standard of instruction in our district schools. They are regarded as nurseries for children in short clothes, where they are to be kept away from the family till they are large enough to come down stairs. In the good old times Geography, Arithmetic and Grammar, as well as Reading and Spelling were taught, with the idea that the scholars could become proficient in each branch. In the common schools many were fitted to be themselves teachers. Boys and girls expected to "go through the book" and worked for it. Parents expected it and assisted in it. Now the goal to be reached is admission to the high school, with little thought of the degree of advancement attained. Some teachers are at fault in encouraging their pupils to apply for admission. They would do a great favor to all making inquiry, whether parents of the children, or the children themselves, to say to them, it is not their inclination to advise in that matter. More enter too early than too late. Very likely it is pleasant to flatter a fond parent by saying that a twelve-year-old boy or girl, the pride of the household, is fitted to go to the high school. There is an easy way to avoid the embarrassment by saying that it is not becoming to assume a prerogative that belongs to the School Committee. It is a question concerning which there is no doubt in the minds of your committee that the common English branches should be nearly, or quite perfected in the district schools. They can be taught more successfully there than in the high school, he teacher can give more personal attention and more rapid progress will be made. Furthermore our common schools will thus maintain the rank that, during all the history of our town, has been a source of a good education to each generation. Those of us at least who have reached and passed the age of two score years recall with pardonable pride our experience and our successes in the common school.

By the present system of admitting pupils to the high school the number of classes is so multiplied therein that it is impossible to assign a recitation hour, or even half hour, to each class in the course of one day, and consequently the number of recitations must be less than the number of school days in each week. It may be that in the case of scholars in the last year of their course it would be admissable to call them two or three times in a week to the recitation room. They are supposed at that time of their school course to be so advanced and matured that they can be trusted to attend strictly to the subject being pursued, and yet it is better that all be made daily accountable to the teacher for the work done. Even now, when during the past two years from two to four of the classes have been put under the care of advanced pupils in the school, some classes have not been called daily and some called outside of school hours. The situation demands attention and decisive action. We are not at liberty to exclude the higher English branches or the classical studies from the school. The will of the founder of it is decisive on that point. We can require a more thorough preparatory course in the common schools before admission. To advance the standard of every school in town is the object to be kept single before the eyes of each individual in town.

With great hesitation I proceed to consider a subject that I simply referred to in my report one year ago. The present division of the town into districts dates back beyond the remembrance of nearly all now living within its limits. A few changes have been made within the last fifty years. The original division of and the changes since were no doubt wise and necessary. Thirty, forty and fifty years ago there were from five hundred to seven hundred scholars attending the several schools in town; now less than two hundred in the district schools, or between the ages of five years and fifteen years. In one district one scholar, 7 years old, constituted the whole school for two terms, aggregating 19 weeks, during the past year. In another district two scholars, aged 6 years, attended during the first term of eight weeks. In the second term 4, all transient residents in town. There have been nine terms of school where the average attendance was less than 4; seven where the average attendance was 3 or less, and five where it was less than 3.

The following table exhibits the average cost per scholar each month in several districts, estimated upon the wages of the teachers alone:

First term	$4 50
" "	6 00
" "	6 50
" "	10 00
" "	3 25
" "	2 00
" " the lowest rate	1 15
Second term	6 00
" "	4 50
" "	5 30
" "	11 00
" "	5 50
" "	3 50
" " the lowest rate	1 16

We have had forty-six terms of school with an average attendance of less than ten scholars. The greatest aggregate number of weeks in any district was 31; the smallest 15. It seems unnecessary to point out the reasons why a school of so small a number of scholars as in so many of our districts, will be comparatively uninteresting and tedious to teachers and pupils; and the question arises, how can a remedy be provided?

1st—Reference is made to sections 22 and 26, chap. 86, General Laws. Section 22 authorizes two or more contiguous districts to unite by concurrent votes in the support of one or more schools. Section 26 provides that districts having less than twelve scholars may by vote authorize the prudential committee to provide for the attendance of pupils at the schools of adjoining districts and divide the money appropriated for the term, among the adjoining districts in proportion to the number of pupils by them received. Either of these two methods could be adopted with manifest advantage in several districts in town. Another provision to aid in the attendance of pupils living more than one mile and a half from the school will be referred to hereafter.

2d—I refer to sections 2, 3 and 24, chap. 86, and sections 16, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, chap. 87, Gen. Laws. The adoption of these provisions would effect a radical change in the system of school management in our town. Serious objections will at once arise that should lead to caution and candid consideration In calling the attention of the people of the town to this subject I am impressed with the full conviction that some evils which now exist would be at once remedied, and many advantages arise which we cannot enjoy under the present system. Some of the evils to be remedied I have referred to; the advantages prominent in my mind I will proceed to state.

Section 2 provides that "Any town may at any time abolish the school districts therein, and shall thereupon forthwith take possession of all the school houses, land, apparatus and other property owned and used for school purposes, which such districts might lawfully sell or convey. The property so taken shall be appraised under the direction of the town, and at the next annual assessment thereafter a tax shall be levied upon the whole town equal to the amount of the whole appraisal, and there shall be remitted to the taxpayers of each district the said appraised value of its property thus taken; or the difference in the value of the property of the several districts may be adjusted in any other manner agreed upon by the parties in interest."

Section 3 declares that any town so abolishing the school districts "Shall then be considered one district."

Section 16, chap. 87, provides that the "School districts composed of the whole town shall, at their annual meeting, elect a board of education, who shall have and exercise all the powers and duties of superintending and prudential school committees."

Section 18 provides that such board of education shall consist of three, six or nine persons, one-third of whom shall hold office for one year, one-third for two years, and one-third for three years. One-third of said board shall be chosen at every annual meeting of the district after the first choice thereof aforesaid, by ballot, and by a major vote of the qualified voters of the district present and voting."

The foregoing are the points of most interest in such a change.

The first important result would be the reduction of the number of schools, the increase of the average length of the terms, and the giving to every scholar in town equal facilities of education in the character and length of the schools. The very small schools which we now have and which cannot be of as much advantage to the attending pupils as the larger schools would be avoided. The probability of securing better qualified teachers would be greatly increased. The selection and designation of teachers to the different schools being in the discretion of the board of education from the whole number of applicants for situations as teachers, upon examination, or from previous knowledge, the board would elect such as were deemed to be duly qualified by age, character and special requirements to fill all vacancies that from year to year might occur. In the assignment of teachers regard would be had to peculiar fitness for particular schools—in a word, each teacher would be placed where she would do the most good. The chances for poor teachers would be exceedingly limited; and the change of good teachers very rare. The near equality of wages in different schools would tend to prevent the best teachers from seeking situations in central locations, but all would be equally satisfied and content to labor in any situation assigned, knowing that by faithful service they held permanent and honorable positions. The annual and semi-annual change of teachers which is almost universal would be no longer a serious detriment to our schools, annoying and discouraging to competent teachers; and the occasion for the annual scramble before, at, and after the district school meetings to get some one out, and some one into the office of district school teacher would no longer exist.

I approach now a distinctly new feature that could be adopted under the change we are considering. I refer to the establishment of a Grammar School at the centre, or of two such schools located severally at convenient points in the east and west portions of the town. in which should be taught, and the study thereof completed, the branches of English Grammar, Geography, Arithmetic and History of the United States, together with other such incidental branches, as reading, spelling, penmanship and composition. The qualifications for admission to such school should be as high as has heretofore been required for admission to the high school. From this middle grade of schools the step would be easy and natural to the high school, wherein, in such a case, the course of instruction would be properly limited in the number of studies to the great advantage of all who seek a higher education, as well as for those who seek only a thorough English education. Who can doubt that every grade of scholar would be greatly benefited by such a change if wisely and disinterestedly managed.

Section 24, chap. 86, provides that "Any town in which all the school districts are or shall be united may take and use part of the school money, not exceeding ten per cent. for the conveyance to and from the school of pupils living more than one mile and a half from school."

A proper arrangement and location of the several schools would place all the schools of the lower grade within the minimum distance of nearly all the families in town. Should one or more schools of the middle grade be established a fair apportionment of the part of the school money allowed to be appropriated would greatly aid these families living in the extreme limits of the town in sending their children to those schools, and so help to establish more and more the equality of privileges among us.

Having presented the subject in some of the important phases that show themselves to my mind, I respectfully submit the whole matter to the candid consideration of all the inhabitants of the town, believing that time will make manifest many defects in our present system, reaching from the smallest and lowest graded school to the High school, and trusting also that the people will considerately seek some way of remedy.

STEPHEN S. BEAN,
School Committee.

HOPKINTON TIMES,

CONTOOCOOK N. H.

One of the liveliest, newsiest and spiciest papers published in the state. To be enlarged JUNE 2 to a large 32-column double folio, devoted to general and local news, free from all obnoxious sensationalism. It will be devoted to independent and impartial discussions of all questions of current interest—industrial, social, literary and whatever else concerns the well being of the community at large. In all the departments it is the constant aim of the paper to keep pace with the times in science, literature, the arts and morals, as well as business and current events, all the important news of the week, besides a large and interesting variety of selected miscellany and original correspondence on all the fresh and important topics of the day.

This paper affords one of the best ADVERTISING MEDIUMS to be found in this section of New England, having in this short period a circulation of nearly 2,000, and during next year we intend to push its circulation to head the list of all local papers in the State. Terms reasonable. Subscription price only $1.00 per year. A large and finely equipped is connected with this establishment. Every variety of PRINTING and BINDING executed cheaply, expeditiously and substantially.

Also all manner of Color Work and Fine Card, Book and Poster work done here Bills printed and distributed when desired. Give us a trial before sending your printing elsewhere. Address all orders to
